About the Meeting

In 2005, Indiana passed legislation allowing public agencies to use design-build as a project delivery method. While some public entities have used the statute since then, this meeting will be the first to walk attendees through the project from beginning to end. You will learn how I.U. and their construction team interpreted the statute, what worked, and what could have been improved.

This panel presentation features leaders in Indiana's construction industry, who also happen to have played key roles in this project:

Robert Meadows, Indiana University

Larry Roan, F. A. Wilhelm

Drew White, Axis Architecture

Barth Hendrickson, Browning Day Mullins Dierdorf

John Grosvener, F.A. Wilhelm

In addition, attendees will receive a Practical Guide to the Indiana Statute prepared by the Great Lakes Chapter's General Counsel, and moderator for this event, Patrick Miller of Baker & Daniels, LLP.

Those attending will leave the meeting better prepared to lead or participate in future projects using the statute. If Indiana is like the majority of States that passed similar legislation years ago, we can expect a surge in such projects once an owner uses the statute: by attending you and your team can be better prepared to meet this exciting challenge!
